Get noticed. Get advice. Get transferred!

This event matters! With large corporations such as Big Pharma, Large Biotech and industrial-based companies in the chemical industries looking to create and secure innovative deals with early-stage and emerging biotech companies, the community as a whole requires Technology Transfer initiatives like never before. In such a sellers market understanding, knowledge and important connections to deliver the transfer of valuable and sought-after technology is a pre-requisite.

The inaugural Biotech-focused Tech Transfer forum, created by the European Federation of Biotechnology (EFB), in partnership with Tech Investor Ltd., will be held in Barcelona, Spain at the Fira de Barcelona Montjuic on Sept. 18th 2007 and aims to provide the environment to achieve such goals.

Held within the 3-day 13th European Congress on Biotechnology, this day forum will present real opportunities to constructively interact with experienced figures: scientists, commercialisation experts and financiers alike.

The Tech Transfer 2007 is a one-day event providing:

Meet the Players; presentations from leading European and US research organizations

Panel Discussions examining the critical issues and challenges to IP commercialization and related transaction management

Case Studies of high-profile technology transfer stories addressing success factors and both traditional and non-traditional routes to commercialization

Who Will Attend:

- Venture capitalists, private equity and angel investors, corporate acquirers
- Research institutions, leading universities, government laboratories and government technology acquisition specialists
- Entrepreneurs, early-stage professional service providers, IP brokers
- SME & Large Biotechnology companies, Big Pharma companies and large multinational Industrial science-based companies from e.g. chemical, bioprocessing and plastic sectors
